

Dalhousie and cheating

Letter to Editor

Halifax Chronicle Herald, Saturday 3 September 2011, p. A11

On-line at <http://thechronicleherald.ca/Letters/1261423.html>

Mark Mercer

Department of Philosophy

Saint Mary's University

Halifax, NS B3H 3C3

(902) 420-5825

mark.mercer@smu.ca

Got your irony detector working? Turnitin.com, a company universities hire to detect plagiarism, was contracted to store student papers in Canada but in fact stored them in the States. ("Dalhousie cancels anti-plagiarism program," 1 September.)

Good for Dalhousie, first in insisting that students' papers be out of reach of legislated assaults on privacy, second in requiring that those who would catch us in our vices live at least a little virtuously themselves.